Amy, Grandpa is at Bronson Hospital in Kalamazoo. And you may be right about Western medicine. Chances are they are doing more harm than good. I talked to Walter last night. He and Grandma were there for about 2 hours yesterday. Grandpa was not responding. The nurses said he was sedated, but who knows whether it would have made a difference. He's had insulin reactions there (as he does normally) and with him half dead anyway, they may not have noticed right away. I'll be surprised if he makes it out alive, and if he does, he'll probably have to go into a nursing home. I may go see him this afternoon. I'll keep you informed.
