

March 29, 2001

Carol,

Are you finding anything to do over there today? I ran out at about 8:05, so I've resorted to doing my real job - writing procedures. I tell myself it's like investigative reporting, where I'm dealing with people who are trying to conceal the truth, and if I dig hard enough, I will find something scandalous - like they are doing something completely pointless simply because "We've always done it that way". Ah, but finding something like that is probably just a pipe dream.

Bluesman Larry McCray is giving a free performance at 5:30 today at Elderly Instruments. Wanna go? Have a snack before I get home so you won't be starving.

Shirley is having Peter and me and a few others over to her new condo for lunch tomorrow. She is having pizza and lasagna. Pizza in case we don't like her lasagna.

Love, Steve