Alan,

Sounds like you did a terrific job, and at $207 for 25 hours, you made well above minimum wage!

So it took 6 CDs to hold them? At what resolution?

I'll come over to pick them up some time this weekend. I'll call first.

I've been shopping for scanners on the Internet. I haven't found much that compares favorably with the CanoScan 4000. If one was going to scan slide collections as a business, the 4000 dpi resolution wouldn't be necessary, so he could settle for a cheaper scanner. But he'd still have to consider scanning speed. I guess there are 3 considerations: cost, scanning speed, and scan quality. The Minolta Dimage Scan Elite might be worth considering. It is the only other one I've found that takes 4 slides at a time.
