

August 16, 2002

I think the only benefit for me is that I won't have to listen to her complain about going to work. Now, if she went out and got another job, or actually made some money in the neurofeedback business, we might come out all right.

She could get medical insurance with her pension, but doesn't have to because I already have us covered.

See you next weekend. When to expect to get there?

Steve