So, you've got a place in Denver? An apartment? Moving in with Fred? Is the job still going well?

You could get me a CD, but I don't know what. Erika Badu's new one sounds interesting. I've heard great things about White Stripes. Maybe some rockabilly. The last one we bought was Foufeulet, a teenage Cajun band we saw at a folk festival in E. Lansing this summer.

Carol is all set to launch her neurofeedback practice. She set up a little office in a corner of the family room downstairs, has her business cards, got a cell phone, and is printing brochures. The revenue is about to start rolling in!

Grandma is moving to an apartment downtown - those right behind City Hall, that overlook the river. Megan is living with her and working at South Haven Hospital.
