

November 24, 2004

(Responding to a Lansing State Journal readers' poll on promoting hunting.)

Chris,

I think the State should be careful about promoting anything. If the people want it, promoting it shouldn't be necessary. If they don't want it, the State shouldn't be promoting it. Hunting doesn't seem to be the kind of activity that clearly benefits the public.

Steve Harry
Lansing