

February 12, 2005

Alan,

Sorry you can't make it. We are having a pretty good time, except we spend a lot of time in traffic. Wednesday we went to Homosassa Springs State Park, and that was the most fun we've had so far. It was like a little zoo, with alligators, manatees and lots of birds. Thursday we went to a town just north of Orlando to visit a neurofeedback practitioner Carol knew from her email discussion group. Not much fun for me, but I didn't expect it to be. Yesterday we spent several hours at the Salvador Dali Museum in St. Petersburg. That was interesting. Today we went to a park on the south side of St. Petersburg that was supposed to be good for birding. We took an hour long tram tour of the park, but didn't see much of note. Then we visited Sunken Gardens, which was full of tropical plants. We just got back from church and a trip to a Dairy Queen. Tomorrow I hope to get to Honeymoon Island State Park, on the Gulf just north of Clearwater.

Steve

--- Alan Jansen <alan.jansen@comcast.net> wrote:

> Hi Steve and Carol,
>
> We're clearly not going to be coming down. Had too > many things scheduled > such that we would only have been able to come for a > few days. Couldn't see > the expense for a small amount of time especially > when we didn't have much > of a sense of what we wanted to do anyway.
>
> Hope you are enjoying yourselves and take a lot of > pics. We'll see you when > you get back. Maybe next time we can plan further > ahead to do something > together.
>
> Alan
>
>
>