

March 15, 2005

Kelli,

The river is beautiful in the winter, too, and it's great that we can see it so well from inside our warm house. Our stretch of the river never freezes, so we see waterfowl in the dead of winter that we don't see any other time. Goldeneye and Common Merganser are there frequently and we saw Canvasbacks and Shovelers a couple times. Recently, we've seen Hooded Mergansers - really beautiful. I'm thinking about getting a telescope lens for my camera.

Steve