

December 15, 2006

Alan,

It's going to be tough to get off imported oil, but then we've never really tried. If we really set our minds to it as a nation, we should expect some breakthroughs - new ideas - to go along with wind power, solar power, etc. A hefty tax on gas would provide the incentive.

This week's City Pulse has an article about the local atheist organization. So far, I have no desire to join.

Steve