Laura,

Grant, the main man at ECO, wears Converse hightops for just about everything. But he is superhuman. His wife buys a half dozen pairs at a time for him. One day, he was wearing a different color on each foot. (See attached picture.)

When would be a good time to call and shop together online for flights? On the way there, we need to get to SLC or Las Vegas by early afternoon so we can get to Boulder before too late in the evening. On the way home, we need a flight that takes off late enough - early afternoon? - to allow us time to get to the airport. Another option would be to stay an extra night at the end of the trip - stay in Boulder the first night, then close to the airport the next night. Then we could make an early morning flight the next day.

The drive from SLC to Boulder was easy, but not all that interesting. Driving from Las Vegas would at least be different for me, but an hour longer. I'll do some more research.
