

April 20, 2007

Walter,

My knee is feeling better today. I took the day off today and tomorrow I'm not exercising - just helping the local Audubon chapter with their "adopt a highway" trash pick up.

I did like Ed's pictures. I think he knows what he is doing.

Where is your farm?

I did get Sue's apology. Poor Serena gets stuck with a lot responsibility guiding us in at the start of the trip and out at the end. Laura and I each tipped each of the 3 guides $50. That is what one of the hikers on my October trip suggested.

Steve

--- Walter <wga_1082@yahoo.com> wrote:

> Steve,
>
> I thought of you this am when I was cranking through > my weights part of my exercizes. I do dumbbells on > Mon, Wed, Friday routines.
>
> Ha..! Tell Laura I listen to that Dixie Chic album > every morning at breakfast after my exercizes and > when
> that song comes on.. "Standing out so you won't > forget
> my face..." which Laura remembered and I just > remembered "Everybody knows..", I have to laugh.
> Tell
> her that I guess "all the things that I can't erase > from my life.." strikes a chord with me. Ha, again!
>
> I am heading up to my farm this weekend to see what > work has been done on my houses. I have some empty > raised beds that have been empty for years..but I > used > to plant with lettuce, arugula, corn, squash, and > tomatoes.
>
> It sure sounds like she has her hands full with the > critters and the farming. I have a squirrel problem > in > one of the houses..traps have not helped. I am > swamped here at the office but the sun is out for > the > first time in a week.

>
> Hope all is well with you and the knee is better.
> Did
> you and Laura like Ed's pics? I thought they were > greeat. I could not believe he got me coming up > that > steep slip rock on the first day when we all were > nervous about making it after or two German female > testers went up it! We called them "the girls" much > to Laura's chagrin..
>
> Did you get the apology from Sue re the trail up the > last day? Sue said Serena missed it and they never > would have wanted us to "bushwack" up that way. She > asked about my head wound..
>
> By the way, can you advise me what you tipped each > person? I have to send mine in and am curious.
> Thanks.
>
> Have a great weekend.
>
> Walter
>