

August 8, 2007

Tom, Kelli and Amy,

Got home a little after midnight last night. Long trip. I don't think I'd take the train again unless I had a sleeper and the route was more interesting. When I switched trains in Chicago, there sitting across the aisle was Neal and Betty Norcross. Neal is my dad's cousin. They had been to Mayo Clinic for treatment of Neal's cancer. They must be in their mid 70's. They live in Kalamazoo.

Grandma Harry is back in the hospital with the same symptoms - slow pulse. They are going to install a pacemaker tomorrow, after the blood thinning medication she's been on has a chance to get out of her system.

Some pictures are attached.

Dad