Here's what I learned at the reunion (wish I could remember more):

John [Shimer] didn't come and I didn't hear much about him other than the reason he didn't come might be health issues.

Ellen had a bad fall on a bicycle a few years ago and had serious head injuries, I think requiring surgery. She says it was a long recovery, but she seemed fine now. She had to give up her practice of providing one-on-one care for troubled children. She is riding a bike again, this time wearing a helmet. Her husband seems real nice.

Paul is a personnel benefits specialist. He retired, but continues to work on contract. He lives out east. He served on city council for several years. Still sings in a choir, and the choir has made a couple of trips to China.

Larry is a respiratory therapist and does some teaching.

Carol thought they all were very nice.
