(to Helen and Lois)

My mersdirt.com website mysteriously disappeared today. My first suspicion was that MERS did something, but it must be just a screw-up at Yahoo, where the site is hosted. Yahoo is charging me a monthly fee, and they send me an email to confirm every transaction. I heard nothing from them about this. I have been trying to contact them, but they post no phone number or address. To use their Help, I can only send an email, which is answered by a machine, and it doesn't seem to have an answer for "What did you do with my website?"
