Dear Tom,

I got the Lance Armstrong book. Thanks. I needed something to read.

Witni's running away must be very stressful for you all. I've been reading all the email exchanges. Tell Kelli I appreciate her forwarding them.

I was in Utah all last week. The trip was colder and more strenuous than I expected, but I did all right. The originally planned camp location was in a canyon, but they had 5 inches of rain the previous week, so they took us to higher ground instead. It was beautiful and fun. I took over 250 pictures. I'll try to type up an account of the adventure and include some of the photos. Five are attached to this email.

Love, Dad
