

October 10, 2007

Laura,

Maybe the reason Mom wouldn't stay at your house was that she doesn't like the way she is treated. I know when I was there a few weeks ago and we were eating at your house, you and Rich seemed to be laughing at her for saying stuff that was completely unrelated to what the rest of us were talking about. Making fun of someone behind their back is one thing - sort of a family tradition - but doing so when they are right there is mean. Meaner. Of course, I don't know if that was why she won't stay at your house. I just know that it made me uncomfortable.

Steve

--- laura barden <lauragrace56@yahoo.com> wrote:

> Hi,
>
> Jane and I visited Mom, and ended up bringing her > home for Vern Sill's funeral. I thought she seemed > out of breath and am wondering if her pacemaker is > working just right. I tried to get her to tell me > if she had transfered her records to a new Doc here, > but she kept ignoring me. She needs encouragement.
>
>
> She also wouldn't stay with me at the farm, would > rather go over to Walter's to spend the night.
> Should my feelings be hurt?
>
> Lastly, I have in my garage: a double bed, a twin > bed, two dressers, odds and ends, a vaccum and > ironing board. I will store these things until Nov > 1st, and then they will become mine to do with as I > wish. If there is anything you want, you'd better > get it now!!!
>
> Your loving sister and aunt Laura