Tom,

I am pleased that you are going back to school. So is Carol. If you need a loan, let me know. I've always regretted that although I graduated from college, I didn't come out with anything that really qualified me for a job. I always had to convince prospective employers that I was qualified by my experience - not an easy task. I haven't had a job I really enjoyed since I left the Michigan Department of Social Services in the late 70s.

On the other hand, I never liked attending classes. Nevertheless, I think I'm going to have to sign up for some web design classes at Lansing Community College. I'm not happy with my websites and I can't come up with any better way to get the skills I need to make them look decent.
