Dear Eleanor:

Well, how is everything anyhow? I hear you have been sick. What seems to be the trouble?
That's no way to be when there is a living to be made. If you had been well, I would have had Red brought you up to our formal party. We sure had a lot of fun and it was a pretty nice party even if we did give it. We held it at the Union, which has been redecorated and now looks very nice.
We had dinner at 6:30 and danced between courses. at 9:00 we started an evening of dancing which lasted until 12:00. Red, sure enjoyed it and I am pretty sure you would have if you could have been here. Well that's about enough of that kind of chatter.

What have you been doing? How long have you been sick and all the details. I've been so blame busy I haven't been able to write to anyone until just lately. My supply of mail has been running rather low of late. We have had an awful lot of school work to do and I've had all the other work I can handle also. The first thing that slowed me up was "Hell week" which came the second week of this term.

I was one of the members on the initiation committee I sure had a lot of fun putting the fellows through. I got very little sleep myself, but sure got my arm limbered up swinging the old paddle. You see, I am working on the potato peeler at Wells Hall this term and I have to get up at 5:30 every morning, so as to be to work by six. Another fellow and I take all the eyes, cuts, black marks and hollow centers out of about $3\frac{1}{2}$ bushels of potatoes each morning. I guess I should be able to peel potatoes by the time I'm through.
I have also been transferred from the Forestry major to a job in a office in the Dairy Department. This makes it pretty nice during the winter and I like the work.
So, you see with all my school work these two jobs and indoor track I manage to keep busy. We dear little girl I hope you are O. K. by now and stay that way. Love. Duck wills.
