

Monday night

Dear 'EX'-patient and family----

So it would seem that I am a student again, and they are sure piling it onto us. Next week will be exams and then we will be out in the field someplace observing, then back here for three days of conference and then the semester is over here.

Vesterday we went to Detroit for a place to live next semester, we found one but are not completely satisfied with it but we don't dare wait too long because it is awfully hard to find a good place of any kind in Detroit now. It would seem there are quite a few housing problems in these two places. We met Halson at one and spent from then until eight with him.

I left my manicure set there but don't send it to me until you have further notice. I'll try to write to Shirley tomorrow and send her that belt but in case you are writing right away tell her not to send me 'Life with Father'.

I was awfully tired when I got here I guess, 'cause I slept from sixteen to eighteen hours a day for the first two days. I just could not stay awake unless I was moving. But I feel fine now so I guess there was nothing very vital wrong with me.

How is your royal highness? Have you mopped the kitchen floor yet or is Janis doing the housework, meals, washing, ironing, mending, and bossing right now? I am rather anxious to find out how Hazel is coming along.

We got to Kalamazoo at about ten Sunday morning (broke a wheel near Bloomingdale) and so I called Edgar Growden as I knew I couldn't leave town until twelve. He wanted me to stay over until the midnight train but I couldn't see the object in that. However I did let two go by and came on the five o'clock. We went up to their house and then went to a show in the afternoon. It was fun seeing him and hashing over old friends.

I got some flannel last week and tonight I am going to cut myself out a flannel nightgown. I am getting tired of freezing and I even think I'll put a draw string in the bottom.

I have some work to make up but not a whole lot but even then I can keep busy.

Let me know how my field work over vacation turned out will you?
